MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

In support of its Motion to Compel Arbitration, defendant Experian Information Solutions, Inc. (“EIS”) respectfully submits the following Memorandum of Points and Authorities.

INTRODUCTION

This is a putative class action under the Fair Credit Reporting Act. There are five named plaintiffs: Electtra Meeks, Joesph De La Cruz, Stephanie Laguna, Amber Leonard, and Becky Witt. Collectively, they generally allege the following. They each obtained loans from what they contend are “tribal lenders.” They contend that those loans were illegal under state law. They ceased paying on the loans, and the debts became delinquent. The loans, the payment histories, and delinquency information were reported by the lenders to EIS. They maintain that a class action settlement should have put EIS on notice that their loans were illegal, and should have ceased reporting on their credit files (even though EIS was not a party to that case). After Plaintiffs disputed the loans, EIS deleted them from their files. Nonetheless, they contend that the loans were subsequently purchased by third parties—defendants Midwest Recovery Systems, LLC and Consumer Adjustment Company, Inc.—who continued to report the loans to EIS and allegedly altered the “date of first delinquency.” That adjustment, Plaintiffs say, made the delinquency of their loans appear to be more recent than they actually were, and prevented the debt from aging off their files in a timely manner. Plaintiffs contend that EIS’s actions constituted a willful violation of the FCRA. EIS now moves to compel Plaintiffs’ claims to arbitration.

Each Plaintiff is a member of CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup>—a free online credit monitoring product that is provided by EIS’s affiliate, ConsumerInfo.com, Inc. (which does business as Experian Consumer Services (“ECS”)). Each of Plaintiffs’ CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup> membership predates the filing of this lawsuit. Plaintiffs’ CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup> memberships afforded them access to how credit information appeared in their EIS credit files. Each Plaintiff used their CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup> membership, logging on to the service and accessing the information in their file at EIS before and after this lawsuit was filed. Through the use of their memberships, Plaintiffs learned the facts giving rise to their claims in this case, including how the loans at issue were being reported and the alleged changes to the “date of first delinquency.”

When Plaintiffs enrolled in CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup>, they agreed to the Terms of Use governing that service. The Terms of Use has an arbitration clause, which provides that Plaintiffs and ECS—as well as ECS’s affiliate, defendant EIS—agree to arbitrate “all disputes and claims between us” that “aris[e] out of or relat[e] to” Plaintiffs’ use of their CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup> subscription. Even though the Terms of Use delegate all questions of arbitrability to an arbitrator, Plaintiffs’ claims fall within the scope of the arbitration clause, as they “aris[e] out of or relat[e] to” their use of CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup>. In the recent Coulter v. Experian decision, the Honorable Nitza I. Quiñones Alejandro granted EIS’s motion to compel arbitration, upholding the validity and enforceability of the arbitration clause in the same Terms of Use at issue here. See Coulter v Experian Information Solutions, Inc., 2021 WL 735726 (E.D. Pa. Feb. 25, 2021). This Court should now do the same.

Thus, under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 1, et seq., EIS respectfully moves for an order compelling this matter to arbitration, as required under Plaintiffs’ written agreement, and staying this action until arbitration has been completed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

I. SUMMARY OF THE FACTS

Over various points in time, each of the Plaintiffs enrolled in CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup>. (See Declaration of David Williams (Williams Decl.), ¶¶ 3, 9, 14, 19, and 25.) At the time of enrollment, each Plaintiff agreed to bound by the Terms of Use governing their subscription. (Id., ¶¶ 3-4, 9-10, 14-15, 19-20, and 25.) Every version of the Terms of Use that was in effect when each Plaintiff enrolled had an arbitration clause, which required Plaintiffs to litigate, among other things, all claims against EIS that “relate to” or “arise out of” their membership in non-class arbitration. (Id., Exs. 3, 5, 6, 9, 12, 13 and 15.) Furthermore, every version of the Terms of Use that was in effect when each Plaintiff enrolled had an amendment clause, which provides that the Plaintiffs agreed to be bound by the then-current version of the Terms of Use every time they used their membership. (Id.) After enrolling, every Plaintiff continuously has used their membership, including after the current version of the Terms of Use came into effect, thereby binding them to that agreement. (Id., ¶¶ 6, 11, 16, 22 and 26.) The current version of the Terms of Use, like all of the versions before it, has an arbitration clause, which requires Plaintiffs to litigate all of the claims they plead in this case

1 in non-class arbitration. (Id., Ex. 6.) Like all prior versions of the Terms of Use, the current version 2 expressly allows EIS to invoke and enforce the arbitration clause. (Id.) And, like all prior versions 3 of the Terms of Use, the current version broadly delegates all questions regarding arbitrability to 4 an arbitrator to decide. (Id.)

5 II. PLAINTIFFS AGREED TO THE TERMS OF USE

6 A. Plaintiff Electtra Meeks

7 On November 2, 2018, Ms. Meeks enrolled in CreditWorks<sup>SM</sup>. (Id., ¶ 3.) In order to do so,

 9 personal information—i.e., her name, address, phone number, and e-mail address. (Id., ¶ 3 and 10 Ex. 1.) After she did so, Ms. Meeks had to click the “Submit and Continue” button on the form to 11 continue with the enrollment process. (Id.) Ms. Meeks clicked the “Submit and Continue” button, 12 and was presented with a second form to complete. (Id.) That form required Ms. Meeks to enter 13 her social security number, date of birth, and a username and password. (Id., ¶ 4.) Immediately 14 below the boxes to enter and confirm her password, was the following disclosure: “By clicking 16 acknowledge receipt of your Privacy Policy and Ad Targeting Policy.” (Id., ¶ 4 and Ex. 2.)

 Declaration.

1 continuously used her service, including after the current version of the Terms of Use came into

14           E. Plaintiff Joseph De La Cruz

 27 In order to do so, Ms. Witt was required re-affirm her consent to the Terms of Use. (Id. and Ex. 4.) 28 The Terms of Use that she re-affirmed are those that are attached as Exhibit 13 to the Williams Declaration.

 4 Declaration. After enrolling, Mr. De La Cruz continuously used his service, including after the 5 current version of the Terms of Use came into effect. (Id., ¶ 26.)

6 III. PLAINTIFFS AGREED TO ARBITRATE THEIR CLAIMS

7 The Terms of Use in effect when each Plaintiff enrolled had a section entitled, 8 “Amendments,” which advised them that they would be bound by the then-current Terms of Use 9 each time they “order[ed], access[ed], or use[d]” any of the Services or Websites described in 10 the agreement. (Id., Exs. 3, 5, 6, 9, 12, 13 and 15.) Every subsequent version of the Terms of Use 11 has the identical section on Amendments, including the current version. (Id., Ex. 6.) While all 12 versions of the Terms of Use allowed Plaintiffs to opt-out of amendments to the arbitration clause, 13 see id., Exs. 3, 5, 6, 9, 12, 13 and 15, at no time did any of the Plaintiffs ever reject any changes 14 that were made. (Id., ¶¶ 7, 12, 17, 23 and 27.) After they enrolled in CreditWorks, each of the 15 Plaintiffs continuously used their Service and the Websites—including throughout 2021—which 16 binds them to the current version of the Terms of Use Agreement. (Id., ¶ 6, 11, 16, 22 and 26.)

17 The current (operative) version of the Terms of Use Agreement begins with the section, 18 “Overview and Acceptance of Terms,” which reads, in pertinent part:

19 OVERVIEW AND ACCEPTANCE OF TERMS

21 You agree that by creating an account with ECS (as defined below), or 22 accessing or using our Services (as defined below), website(s) (such as this 23 website, <https://usa.experian.com>, or any affiliated website (including, but 28 website and mobile application referred to herein as a “Website,” and collectively, as “Websites”), you represent to ECS that you have read,

 2 that you simply browse or access a Website), or a “Customer” (which means 3 that you have created an account with ECS, or enrolled or registered with a 4 * * *

5 For the avoidance of doubt, this Agreement expressly applies to: (a) your of authorship and other information and all revisions, modifications, and enhancements thereto contained in the Websites.

15 You may not browse the Websites, or create an account or register with ECS, 17 you are not of a legal age to form a binding contract with ECS. If you accept 18 this Agreement, you represent that you have the capacity to be bound by it.

 Before you continue, you should print or save a local copy of this Agreement for your records.

7                   The Terms of Use also has a section entitled “Dispute Resolution By Binding Arbitration” 8                   which reads, in pertinent part:

9                   DISPUTE RESOLUTION BY BINDING ARBITRATION

10                   PLEASE READ THIS CAREFULLY. IT AFFECTS YOUR RIGHTS.

11                   SUMMARY:

12                   MOST CUSTOMER CONCERNS CAN BE RESOLVED QUICKLY AND

15                   UNLIKELY EVENT THAT ECS'S CUSTOMER CARE DEPARTMENT 16                   IS UNABLE TO RESOLVE A COMPLAINT YOU MAY HAVE 17                   REGARDING A SERVICE OR WEBSITE TO YOUR SATISFACTION 18                   (OR IF ECS HAS NOT BEEN ABLE TO RESOLVE A DISPUTE IT HAS 19                   WITH YOU AFTER ATTEMPTING TO DO SO INFORMALLY), WE

21                   ARBITRATION OR SMALL CLAIMS COURT INSTEAD OF IN 22                   COURTS OF GENERAL JURISDICTION TO THE FULLEST EXTENT 23                   PERMITTED BY LAW. ARBITRATION IS MORE INFORMAL THAN 24                   A LAWSUIT IN COURT. ARBITRATION USES A NEUTRAL 25                   ARBITRATOR INSTEAD OF A JUDGE OR JURY, Allows FOR 26                   MORE LIMITED DISCOVERY THAN IN COURT, AND IS SUBJECT 27                   TO VERY LIMITED REVIEW BY COURTS. ARBITRATORS CAN 28                   AWARD THE SAME DAMAGES AND RELIEF THAT A COURT CAN 29                   AWARD. ANY ARBITRATION UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL 30                   TAKE PLACE ON AN INDIVIDUAL BASIS; CLASS ARBITRATIONS 31                   AND CLASS ACTIONS ARE NOT PERMITTED. ECS WILL PAY ALL 32                   COSTS OF ARBITRATION, NO MATTER WHO WINS, SO LONG AS 33                   YOUR CLAIM IS NOT FRIVOLOUS. HOWEVER, IN ARBITRATION, 34                   BOTH YOU AND ECS WILL BE ENTITLED TO RECOVER
35                   ATTORNEYS' FEES FROM THE OTHER PARTY TO THE SAME 36                   EXTENT AS YOU WOULD BE IN COURT.

37                   Arbitration Agreement:

38                   (a) ECS and you agree to arbitrate all disputes and claims between us arising 39                   out of this Agreement directly related to the Services or Websites to the 1 maximum extent permitted by law, except any disputes or claims which 2 under governing law are not subject to arbitration. This agreement to 3 arbitrate is intended to be broadly interpreted and to make all disputes and 4 claims between us directly relating to the provision of any Service and/or your use of any Website subject to arbitration to the fullest extent permitted by law. The agreement to arbitrate includes, but is not limited to:

5 claims arising out of or relating to any aspect of the relationship between us 6 arising out of any Service or Website, whether based in contract, tort, statute (including, without limitation, the Credit Repair Organizations Act) fraud, 7 misrepresentation or any other legal theory; claims that arose before this or 8 any prior Agreement (including, but not limited to, claims relating to advertising); claims that are currently the subject of purported class action 9 litigation in which you are not a member of a certified class; and claims that may arise after the termination of this Agreement.

10 For purposes of this arbitration provision, references to "ECS," "you," and 11 "us" shall include our respective parent entities, subsidiaries, affiliates (including, without limitation, our service provider, CSID), agents, 12 employees, predecessors in interest, successors and assigns, websites of the foregoing, as well as all authorized or unauthorized users or beneficiaries of 13 Services and/or Websites or information under this or prior Agreements between us relating to Services and/or Websites. Notwithstanding the 14 foregoing, either party may bring an individual action in small claims court.
 You agree that, by entering into this Agreement, you and ECS are each 15 waiving the right to a trial by jury or to participate in a class action to the maximum extent permitted by law. This Agreement evidences a transaction 16 in interstate commerce, and thus the Federal Arbitration Act governs the interpretation and enforcement of this arbitration provision. This arbitration 17 provision shall survive termination of this Agreement.

19 * * *

20 (c) . . . The arbitration will be governed by the Commercial Dispute 21 Resolution Procedures and the Supplementary Procedures for Consumer Related Disputes (collectively, "AAA Rules") of the American Arbitration 22 Association ("AAA"), as modified by this Agreement, and will be administered by the AAA. If the AAA is unavailable or refuses to arbitrate 23 the parties' dispute for any reason, the arbitration shall be administered and conducted by a widely-recognized arbitration organization that is mutually 24 agreeable to the parties, but neither party shall unreasonably withhold their consent. If the parties cannot agree to a mutually agreeable arbitration 25 organization, one shall be appointed pursuant to Section 5 of the Federal Arbitration Act. In all events, the AAA Rules shall govern the parties' 26 dispute. The AAA Rules are available online at www.adr.org, by calling the 27 AAA at 1-800-778-7879, or by writing to the Notice Address. The AAA 28 Rules may change from time to time, and you should review them periodically.

1 All issues are for the arbitrator to decide, including the scope and 2 enforceability of this arbitration provision as well as the Agreement's other 3 terms and conditions, and the arbitrator shall have exclusive authority to 4 resolve any such dispute relating to the scope and enforceability of this 5 arbitration provision or any other term of this Agreement including, but not 6 limited to any claim that all or any part of this arbitration provision or 7 Agreement is void or voidable. However if putative class or representative 8 claims are initially brought by either party in a court of law, and a motion to 9 compel arbitration is brought by any party, then the court shall have the 10 power to decide whether this agreement permits class or representative 11 proceedings. The arbitrator shall be bound by the terms of this Agreement 12 and shall follow the applicable law. In this regard, the arbitrator shall not 13 have the power to commit errors of law or legal reasoning, and any award 14 rendered by the arbitrator that employs an error of law or legal reasoning 15 may be vacated or corrected by a court of competent jurisdiction for any such 16 error. Unless ECS and you agree otherwise, any arbitration hearings will take 17 place in the county (or parish) of your billing address. If your claim is for 18 $10,000 or less, we agree that you may choose whether the final arbitration 19 hearing will be conducted solely on the basis of documents submitted to the arbitrator, through a telephonic hearing, or by an in-person hearing as established by the AAA Rules. If your claim exceeds $10,000, the right to a hearing will be determined by the AAA Rules. Except as otherwise provided for herein, ECS will pay all AAA filing, administration and arbitrator fees for any arbitration initiated in accordance with the notice requirements above. If, however, the arbitrator finds that either the substance of your claim or the relief sought in the Demand is frivolous or brought for an improper purpose (as measured by the standards set forth in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11(b)), then the payment of all such fees will be governed by the AAA Rules. In such case, you agree to reimburse ECS for all monies previously disbursed by it that are otherwise your obligation to pay under the AAA Rules.

 21 (f) YOU AND ECS AGREE THAT EACH MAY BRING CLAIMS 22 AGAINST THE OTHER ONLY IN YOUR OR ITS INDIVIDUAL 23 CAPACITY, AND NOT AS A PLAINTIFF OR CLASS MEMBER IN 24 ANY PURPORTED CLASS OR REPRESENTATIVE PROCEEDING.
 25 Further, unless both you and ECS agree otherwise, the arbitrator may not 26 consolidate more than one person's claims, and may not otherwise preside 27 over any form of a representative or class proceeding. The arbitrator may 28 award injunctive relief only in favor of the individual party seeking relief and only to the extent necessary to provide relief warranted by that party's individual claim. If this specific subparagraph (f) is found to be unenforceable in its entirety, then the entirety of this arbitration provision shall be null and void. However, if only a portion of this subparagraph (f) is found to be unenforceable, then the unenforceable portion of the provision shall be stricken, and the remainder of subparagraph (f) enforced. Any 1 claims not subject to individual arbitration under applicable law shall be 2 stayed in a court of competent jurisdiction pending completion of the 3 individual arbitration.

4 (Id., Ex. 6 (emphasis in original).)

5 IV. PLAINTIFFS' CLAIMS ARE SUBJECT TO ARBITRATION

6 Plaintiffs allege that each obtained loans from what they contend are “tribal lenders.” (ECF 7 No. 1 at ¶ 1.) They allege that those loans were illegal under state law. (Id.) They ceased paying 8 on the loans, and the debts became delinquent. (Id., ¶¶ 62-63, 65-66, 69-70, 77-78 and 85-86.) 9 The loans, the payment histories, and delinquency information were reported by the lenders to EIS.
 10 (Id.) They maintain that a class action settlement should have put EIS on notice that their loans 11 were illegal, and should have ceased reporting on their credit files—even though EIS was not a 12 party to the case and the settlement imposed no reporting obligation on the part of the settling 13 defendants to EIS. (Id., ¶ 7.) After Plaintiffs disputed the loans, EIS deleted them from their files.
 14 (Id., ¶ 62, 73 and 81.) Nonetheless, they contend that the loans were subsequently purchased by 15 third parties, who not only continued to report the loans to EIS but allegedly altered the “date of 16 first delinquency.” (Id., ¶ 6, 51.) That adjustment, Plaintiffs say, made the delinquency of their 17 loans appear to be more recent than they actually were, and prevented the debt from aging off their 18 files in a timely manner. (Id.) Through their CreditWorks subscription, Plaintiffs learned how EIS 19 was reporting the loans and “date of first delinquency” that is the subject of this lawsuit. (Williams 20 Decl., ¶¶ 8, 13, 18, 24 and 28.)

21 LEGAL ARGUMENT

22 I. THE COURT SHOULD COMPEL THIS MATTER TO ARBITRATION

23 The FAA provides that “[a] party aggrieved by the alleged failure . . . of another to 24 arbitrate under a written agreement for arbitration may petition any United States district court 25 which, save for such agreement, would have jurisdiction . . . of the subject matter of a suit 26 arising out of the controversy between the parties, for an order directing that such arbitration 27 proceed in the manner provided for in such agreement.” 9 U.S.C. § 4.

1        This Court should issue an order compelling this matter to arbitration because the Terms
 2 of Use Agreement is an enforceable contract that broadly encompasses “all disputes and claims 3 between [Plaintiffs and Experian] arising out of this Agreement directly related to the Services or 4 Websites to the maximum extent permitted by law, except any disputes or claims which under 5 governing law are not subject to arbitration.” (Williams Decl., Exs. 3, 5, 6, 9, 12, 13 and 15.) 6 It further provides that “[t]his agreement to arbitrate is intended to be broadly interpreted and to 7 make all disputes and claims between us directly relating to the provision of any Service and/or 8 your use of any Website subject to arbitration to the fullest extent permitted by law.” (Id.) It also 9 provides that “[t]he agreement to arbitrate includes, but is not limited to: claims arising out of or 10 relating to any aspect of the relationship between us arising out of any Service or Website, whether 11 based in contract, tort, statute (including, without limitation, the Credit Repair Organizations Act) 12 fraud, misrepresentation or any other legal theory; claims that arose before this or any prior 13 Agreement (including, but not limited to, claims relating to advertising); claims that are currently 14 the subject of purported class action litigation in which you are not a member of a certified class; 15 and claims that may arise after the termination of this Agreement.” (Id.)

16        A. Plaintiffs' Claims Are Subject To Binding Arbitration

17        Section 2 of the FAA mandates that binding arbitration agreements in contracts 18 “evidencing a transaction involving commerce . . . shall be valid, irrevocable, and enforceable, 19 save upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract.” 9 U.S.C.
 20 § 2. This provision “reflect[s] both a ‘liberal federal policy favoring arbitration’ and the 21 ‘fundamental principle that arbitration is a matter of contract,’” such that “courts must place 22 arbitration agreements on an equal footing with other contracts and enforce them according to 23 their terms.” AT&T Mobility LLC v. Concepcion, 563 U.S. 333, 339 (2011); see also Buckeye *Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegn*a, 546 U.S. 440, 443 (2006) (“Section 2 [of the FAA] embodies 25 the national policy favoring arbitration and places arbitration agreements on equal footing with 26 all other contracts.”).

1           The FAA promotes a “liberal federal policy favoring arbitration agreements,” and 2 “questions of arbitrability must be addressed with a healthy regard for the federal policy 3 favoring arbitration.” Moses H. Cone Mem’l Hosp. v. Mercury Constr. Corp., 460 U.S. 1, 24 4 (1983); Perry v. Thomas, 482 U.S. 483, 490 (1987) (stating that arbitration agreements falling 5 within the scope of the FAA “must be ‘rigorously enforce[d]’” (citations omitted)). The FAA 6 “requires courts to enforce privately negotiated agreements to arbitrate, like other contracts, in 7 accordance with their terms.” Volt Info. Scis., Inc. v. Bd. of Tr. of Leland Stanford Junior 8 Univ., 489 U.S. 468, 478 (1989). The court “must resolve ‘any doubts concerning the scope 9 of arbitrable issues … in favor of arbitration.’” Moses H. Cone, 460 U.S. at 24-25.

10           Pursuant to the FAA, arbitration must be compelled where, as here: (1) a valid 11 agreement to arbitrate exists; and (2) the arbitration agreement encompasses the claims at 12 issue. See Chiron Corp. v. Ortho Diagnostic Systems, Inc., 207 F.3d 1126, 1130 (9th Cir.
 13 2000). An arbitration agreement governed by the FAA, like the arbitration agreement here, is 14 presumed to be valid and enforceable. See Shearson/Am. Express v. McMahon, 482 U.S. 220, 15 226 (1987); Mitsubishi Motors Corp. v. Soler Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc., 473 U.S. 614, 626-27 16 (1985). Indeed, there is a presumption in favor of arbitrability. AT&T Tech., Inc. v.
 17 Communications Workers of America, 475 U.S. 643, 650 (1986). The party seeking to evade 18 arbitration bears the burden of showing that the arbitration provision is invalid or does 19 not encompass the claims at issue. See Green Tree Fin. Corp.-Ala. v. Randolph, 531 U.S. 79, 20 92 (2000). As demonstrated below, the arbitration clause in the Terms of Use Agreement is 21 valid and, although the question of the arbitrability of Plaintiffs’ claims ultimately is for an 22 arbitrator to decide, the controversy between Plaintiffs and Experian clearly falls within the 23 arbitration clause’s broadly-worded scope.

24           B.     A Valid Agreement to Arbitrate Exists

25           “While new commerce on the Internet has exposed courts to many new situations, it 26 has not fundamentally changed the principles of contract.” Nguyen v. Barnes & Noble, Inc., 27 763 F.3d 1171, 1175 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting Register.com, Inc. v. Verio, Inc., 356 F.3d 393, 28

1 403 (2d Cir. 2004). Courts within this Circuit routinely enforce internet agreements where, as 2 here, the user is required to affirmatively acknowledge the agreement before proceeding with 3 use of the website. See, e.g., Lee v. Ticketmaster, LLC, 2019 WL 9096442, at *1 (N.D. Cal.
 4 April 1, 2019) (Chhabria, J.), aff'd 817 Fed. Appx. 393 (9th Cir. 2020) ("Ticketmaster 5 provided notice of the terms of use adjacent to the 'Place Order' button, included a hyperlink 6 to the terms in a contrasting color, and informed the user that "continuing past this page" (i.e., 7 placing an order) would indicate assent to the terms.").

8 As a matter of law, Plaintiffs agreed to the Terms of Use Agreement because: (1) they 9 had clear notice of the Terms of Use, (2) they were admonished immediately above the 10 "Submit Secure Order" button that, "By clicking "Submit Secure Order": I accept and agree to 11 your Terms of Use Agreement, as well as acknowledge receipt of your Privacy Policy and Ad
 12 Targeting Policy," and (3) they clicked the "Submit Secure Order" button, thereby manifesting 13 their assent to the Terms of Use.<sup>3</sup> Numerous courts, under indistinguishable facts, have found that 14 website users were bound by the Terms of Use.

15 Indeed, in the recent Coulter v. Experian matter, Judge Alejandro granted Experian's 16 motion to compel arbitration, upholding the validity and enforceability of the arbitration clause 17 in the same Terms of Use Agreement at issue here. See Coulter, 2021 WL 735726. The court 18 ruled that "reasonable notice was provided when Defendant's website advised Plaintiff that 19 "[b]y clicking 'Submit Secure Order': [He] accept[s] and agree[s] to [their] Terms of Use 20 Agreement . . ." Id. at *5 (emphasis in original). The court further found that "[t]he full 21 Terms of Use Agreement, readily available to Plaintiff by clicking on the highlighted link, 22 contained the Arbitration Provision entitled 'DISPUTE RESOLUTION BY BINDING
 23 ARBITRATION.'" Id. The court also explained that, "[b]y clicking the 'Submit Secure 24 Order' button, Plaintiff manifested his assent to the Terms of Use Agreement." Id. In short,

26 <sup>3</sup> With regard to Mr. De La Cruz, the website similarly admonished him: "By clicking 27 "Create Your Account": I accept and agree to your Terms of Use Agreement, as well as 28 acknowledge receipt of your Privacy Policy and Ad Targeting Policy." (Williams Decl., ¶ 25 and Ex. 14.)

1        “[b]ecause Plaintiff had reasonable notice and manifested his assent, . . . the Terms of Use 2        Agreement and the Arbitration Provision therein constitute a valid agreement to arbitrate.” Id.
 3        This Court should rule in the same manner.

4        Similarly, in Graf v. Match.com, LLC, No. CV 15-3911 PA (MRWx), 2015 WL
 5        4263957 (C.D. Cal. July 10, 2015), the district court ruled that users of Match.com’s website 6        agreed to an arbitration provision in the Terms of Use “when they clicked on a ‘Continue’ or 7        other similar button on the registration page where it was explained that by clicking on that 8        button, the user was affirming that they would be bound by the Terms of Use, which were 9        always hyperlinked and available for review.” Id. at *4. Just as in Graf, the Terms of Use at 10        issue here were expressly referenced and hyperlinked in the disclosure located immediately 11        above the “Submit Secure Order” button; and the disclosure stated that by clicking the “Submit 12        Secure Order” button, the online user was accepting the Terms of Use.

13        Crawford v. Beachbody, LLC, No. 14cv1583-GPC(KSC), 2014 WL 6606563 (S.D. Cal.
 14        Nov. 5, 2014), also is indistinguishable from the facts at hand. There, the district court found 15        that the plaintiff had agreed to a forum selection clause found in a website’s Terms and 16        Conditions. Just like here, the plaintiff in Crawford “had to click an orange button that read 17        ‘PLACE ORDER.’” Id. at *3. Above the button the following text was presented to the 18        plaintiff: “By clicking Place Order below, you are agreeing that you have read and understand 19        the Beachbody Purchase Terms and Conditions, and Team Beachbody Terms and Conditions.” 20        Id. Just like here, “[t]he terms ‘Terms [of] [Use]’ were in blue font while the rest of the 21        language in the sentence was in [black] font, which was hyperlinked to the full text of the 22        Terms and Conditions.” Id.

23        Fteja v. Facebook also is indistinguishable from the facts at hand. There, 24        Facebook.com had disclosed: “By clicking Sign Up, you are indicating that you have read and 25        agree to the Terms of Service.” 841 F. Supp. 2d at 835. Plaintiffs likewise were warned: 26        “By clicking “Submit Secure Order”: I accept and agree to your Terms of Use Agreement, as 27        well as acknowledge receipt of your Privacy Policy and Ad Targeting Policy.” See also Swift v.
 28

1        Zynga Game Network, Inc., 805 F. Supp. 2d 904, 911 (N.D. Cal. 2011) (enforcing Terms of 2 Use because the plaintiff “was required to and did click on an ‘Accept’ button directly above 3 a statement that clicking on the button served as assent to the [website’s] terms of service along 4 with a blue hyperlink directly to the terms of service”).

5        The Terms of Use Agreement expressly allows affiliates of Experian Consumer Service to 6 invoke the agreement’s arbitration clause:

7        For purposes of this arbitration provision, references to “ECS,” 8 “you,” and “us” shall include our respective parent entities, 9 subsidiaries, affiliates (including, without limitation, our service 10 provider, CSID), agents, employees, predecessors in interest, 11 successors and assigns, websites of the foregoing, as well as all authorized or unauthorized users or beneficiaries of Services and/or Websites or information under this or prior Agreements between us relating to Services and/or Websites.

12       (Williams Decl., Exs. 3, 5, 6, 9, 12, 13 and 15.) Defendant Experian Information Solutions, Inc. is 13 an affiliate of ECS. (Id., ¶ 2.)

14       In sum, by disclosing to users they are agreeing to the Terms of Use, and requiring 15 affirmative action by the user to assent to those terms, Plaintiffs are bound by the Terms of 16 Use. Hence, by clicking the “Submit Secure Order” button—or, in the case of Mr. De La Cruz, 17 the “Create Your Account” button—Plaintiffs agreed to be bound by the then-current version 18 of the Terms of Use Agreement, including its arbitration clause. Thus, a valid agreement to 19 arbitrate exists between Plaintiffs and Experian. See Coulter, 2021 WL 735726 at *5.

20       C. Plaintiffs’ Claims Fall Within The Broadly-Worded Scope Of The 21 Arbitration Clause

22       If there is any question as to whether Plaintiffs’ claims fall within the scope of the arbitration 23 clause contained in the Terms of Use Agreement, that issue is to be decided by an arbitrator:

24       All issues are for the arbitrator to decide, including the scope and 25 enforceability of this arbitration provision as well as the 26 Agreement’s other terms and conditions, and the arbitrator shall 27 have exclusive authority to resolve any such dispute relating to the scope and enforceability of this arbitration provision or any other term of this Agreement[.]

28       (Williams Decl., Exs. 3, 5, 6, 9, 12, 13 and 15 (emphasis added).) Where, as here, the parties have

1 clearly and unmistakably agreed that the arbitrator should decide the validity and applicability of 2 an arbitration provision, the FAA ““leaves no place for the exercise of discretion by a district court, 3 but instead mandates that district courts shall direct the parties to proceed to arbitration on issues 4 as to which an arbitration agreement has been signed.”” Chiron, 207 F.3d at 1130 (quoting Dean 5 Witter Reynolds, Inc. v. Byrd, 470 U.S. 213, 218 (1985)); Rent-A-Center W., Inc. v. Jackson, 130
 6 S. Ct. 2772, 2777 (2010) (same); Henry Schein, Inc. v. Archer and White Sales, Inc., ---U.S.---, 7 139 S.Ct. 524, 527-530 (2019) (“When the parties’ contract delegates the arbitrability question to 8 an arbitrator, a court may not override the contract. In those circumstances, a court possesses no 9 power to decide the arbitrability issue. That is true even if the court thinks that the argument that 10 the arbitration agreement applies to a particular dispute is wholly groundless.”).

11       Indeed, in Coulter, Judge Alejandro explained that “the Arbitration Provision’s Delegation 12 Clause provides that ‘[a]ll issues are for the arbitrator to decide, including the scope and 13 enforceability of this arbitration provision’ and grants the arbitrator ‘exclusive authority to resolve 14 any such dispute relating to the scope and enforceability of this arbitration provision or any other 15 term of this Agreement including, but not limited to any claim that all or any part of this arbitration 16 provision or Agreement is void or voidable.’” 2021 WL 735726 at *4. The court found that 17 “[t]his provision constitutes a ‘clear and unmistakable’ delegation clause under Henry Schein and 18 delegates the exclusive authority to resolve ‘all issues’ to the arbitrator, including the ‘scope and 19 enforceability’ of the Arbitration Provision.” Id. In short, because the Terms of Use Agreement 20 makes an unambiguous expression of intent to arbitrate arbitrability, any question over whether 21 Plaintiffs’ claims fall within the arbitration clause are for an arbitrator to decide. Id.; Gillette v.
 22 First Premier Bank, No. 3:13-CV-432-LAB-RBB, 2013 WL 3205827 at *2 (S.D. Cal. June 24, 23 2013) (“Given the parties’ agreement to arbitrate gateway issues of arbitrability, there is actually 24 very little here for the Court to decide. There’s simply no disputing that the credit card application 25 Gillette filled out, as well as the subsequent credit card contract, contain an agreement to arbitrate.
 26 This being the case, the Court’s work is more or less done.”).

1        But even if there had not been such delegation, where, as here, the parties have entered 2 into a valid arbitration agreement, an “order to arbitrate the particular grievance should not be 3 denied unless it may be said with positive assurance that the arbitration clause is not susceptible 4 of an interpretation that covers the asserted dispute.” AT&T Tech., 475 U.S. at 650. That is, 5 “[a]ny doubts concerning the scope of arbitrable issues should be resolved in favor of 6 arbitration.” Mitsubishi Motors, 473 U.S. at 626. Where an arbitration clause is broadly 7 worded, there is a heightened presumption of arbitrability, such that “[in] the absence of any 8 express provision excluding a particular grievance from arbitration, ... only the most forceful 9 evidence of a purpose to exclude the claim from arbitration can prevail.” AT&T Tech., 475 10 U.S. at 650 (quoting United Steelworkers, 363 U.S. at 582-83).

11        Here, at the outset, the Terms of Use Agreement admonishes: “For the avoidance of 12 doubt, this Agreement expressly applies to . . . any and all transactions between you and ECS 13 through the Websites, including for the provision of any Services or of any credit, personal, 14 financial or other information delivered as part of or in conjunction with free Services or paid 15 Services . . . .” (Williams Decl., Ex. 6.) The arbitration clause provides that “all disputes and 16 claims between us arising out of this Agreement directly related to the Services or Websites to the 17 maximum extent permitted by law” are “subject to arbitration.” (Id.) It further provides that “[t]his 18 agreement to arbitrate is intended to be broadly interpreted and to make all disputes and claims 19 between us directly relating to the provision of any Service and/or your use of any Website subject 20 to arbitration to the fullest extent permitted by law.” (Id.) It then provides that “[t]he agreement to 21 arbitrate includes, but is not limited to: claims arising out of or relating to any aspect of the 22 relationship between us arising out of any Service or Website, whether based in contract, tort, 23 statute[.]” (Id.)

24        Like all other jurisdictions, the Ninth Circuit treats the phase “arising out of” and “relating 25 to” in an arbitration clause as “broad and far reaching.” Chiron, 207 F.3d at 1131; see also In re 26 Remicade (Direct Purchaser) Antitrust Litigation, 938 F.3d 515, 525 (3rd Cir. 2019) (“Courts have 27 generally read the terms ‘arising out of’ or ‘relating to’ [in] a contract as indicative of an ‘extremely broad' agreement to arbitrate any dispute relating in any way to the contract. [Citation] Such broad clauses have been construed to require arbitration of any dispute between the contracting parties that is connected in any way with their contract." [Citation]); see also Collins & Aikman Products Co. v. Building Systems, Inc., 58 F.3d 16, 20 (2nd Cir. 1995) ("Any claim or controversy arising out of or relating to th[e] agreement' is the paradigm of a broad clause." (citing David L. Threlkeld & Co. v. Metallgesellschaft Ltd., 923 F.2d 245, 251 (2d Cir. 1991).) That being the case, if "the allegations underlying the claims 'touch matters' covered by the parties' ... agreement[], then those claims must be arbitrated[.]" Id. (citations omitted).

Here, Plaintiffs' claims against Experian plainly "touch matters" covered by the arbitration clause. Indeed, by virtue of their CreditWorks subscriptions, Plaintiffs saw how the loans at issue in this case were reporting on their Experian credit files. Furthermore, claims under the FCRA are governed by a two-year statute of limitations, which is triggered on the date of discovery of an alleged violation. See 15 U.S.C. § 1681p; Willey v. J.P. Morgan Chase, N.A., No. 09 Civ. 1397(CM), 2009 WL 1938987, at *4 5 (S.D.N.Y. July 7, 2009). The information Plaintiffs obtained through the their use of their CreditWorks service would place them on notice. For all of these reasons, Plaintiffs' claims are subject to arbitration.

II. THE ACTION MUST BE STAYED PENDING ARBITRATION

Section 3 of the FAA expressly provides that where, as here, a valid arbitration agreement requires a dispute to be submitted to binding arbitration, the district court "shall . . . stay the trial of the action until such arbitration has been had in accordance with the terms of the agreement." 9 U.S.C. § 3. Because Plaintiffs must be compelled to arbitrate their claims, the action should be stayed pending completion of arbitration.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Experian respectfully requests that the Court grant this Motion, enter an order directing Plaintiffs to arbitrate their claims against EIS, and stay this action pending the completion of arbitration.
